COME, CHILDREN, AND PLAY

By Grace Filkins, Supervisor of Playgrounds
ARTICLE II.

We spoke in our last number of the changing physical and mental states which give rise to different kinds of play. Today we shall consider, briefly, some of the uses of play activities, especially games.

The use of games for both children and adults has a depth of meaning for the individual and the community; it conserves vitality physically, mentally and morally.

In large cities where little or no opportunity is given for games, the habit of "loafing" takes the place of competitive play, and as a result thousands of children grow up more or less stupid and indifferent.

There are educational benefits in games that no one can measure who has not made a careful study of the individual reactions in play. Those who are slow, dull and lethargic; who observe but little of what goes on around them; who react slowly to external stimuli; who are, in short, slow to see, to hear, to observe, to think, and to do, may be completely transformed in these ways by playing of games. The sense perceptions are quickened. A player comes to see more quickly that a ball is coming toward him; that he is in danger of being tagged; that it is his turn; he hears the footsteps behind him, or his name or number called; he feels the touch on the shoulder; or innumerable other ways is aroused to quick and direct recognition of and response to, things that go on around him. The clumsy, awkward body becomes agile and expert; the child who stumbles down today will not do so next week.

The schedule to be played is rather a heavy one for the local team. On Saturday evening they play the winner in the southeastern district to be decided Thursday evening between Lovelock and Carson City. Then on Monday evening, should the Tonopah squad vanquish the Lovelock team, it will be eligible to compete with the winner of the two northern districts.

The deciding game in that territory will be held in Reno on Friday evening. Reno high school and Elko high being the contenders.

According to the best calculations of all dopesters, Tonopah and Reno should survive to contest the finals. Tonopah has solved Reno's style of play already, and Reno's team will be weakened through the loss of Leah Regan, star center. Figure the rest for yourself.

Should Tonopah be returned victorious, Mr. Cross plans to arrange games for the week that follows, with Lovelock, Carson, Sparks and Winnemucca.

Mr. Cross, whose zeal and ambition has already placed Tonopah's team in easy reaching of the state trophy, has now cast his eye toward California for new fields to conquer. Someone told Mr. Cross that Lowell high school in Oakland has a team that has played 57 games in the last three and a half years, and won them all.

"I'd like to bet they can't make it 58," said Mr. Cross, and now he plans to see that they don't.

With the championship of the Pacific coast at stake, Tonopah girls will try with every ounce of strength and endurance they can muster, to conquer all comers.

The calendar was called this morning by Judge Mark R. Averill in the district court as follows:

Civil—Steve Ambulia vs. N. Martini, Tonopah Sewage & Drainage Co. vs. C. M. Meginniss et al. T. K. Code vs. Mayflower Leasing company. (two cases). Law and motion—Harrison Hill vs. C. J. Kanrohat, Thos. Owens vs. C. J. Kanrohat, C. E. Gillette et al. vs. Pete Choklet et al. Phoebe Gusti vs. John Gusti.

The case of Duval vs. Condon was set for today on order to show cause. The case of Kiernan vs. Maxfield was set for trial Saturday.

Squeaky Shoes. While conducting a research for information on the origin of certain fashions of the past I discovered the reason for the existence of the squeak in shoes.

The squeak was once deemed fashionable, and men of great importance in the affairs of the country demanded it in their footwear, and cobblers were paid 2 shillings extra for putting it in. The squeaky boot denoted the approach of some one of importance, and the way was made clear at once in the same manner as a bicyclist's shrill whistle warns you to look to your interests.

During the squeaky period men found it difficult to sneak into the house after 12 midnight without being discovered and disgraced. Removing the shoes before entering the home is an invention which followed the squeaky shoe era, and while the former is now almost obsolete, the latter is still in vogue and as popular as ever with married men!—Zim in Cartoons Magazine.

NAVAL DEPOT AT HULL IS BOMBARDED (By Associated Press.) BERLIN, Mar. 6.—The admiralty says that the naval depot at Hull was bombed last night in the Zeppelins' raid over England. The explosions were effective and all the ships returned.

TRADE COUPON STOLE UNDER STATE CONTROL (By Associated Press.) WASHINGTON, Mar. 6.—By holding the states that have power to impose taxes, large or small, on trade coupons, redeemable in coupons, the supreme court put the legality of premium advertising by which it is estimated $125,000,000 worth of merchandise sold annually within the scope of state laws.

Curious Dwarf Oaks. Known to ranchmen as chinquery, the dwarf oak of the southwest presents a curious instance of the devious and inscrutable ways of nature. There the illfated of the great oak family covers a great area in the plains of Texas bordering on New Mexico. The trees, it is said, rarely attain a height of twenty inches and are replicas of their giant brothers in other parts of the country. The acorns which they bear are as large as those of the common burr oak and present a grotesque appearance hanging from the little limbs of the low growing shrub or tree. The annual crop of mast is used for fattening hogs. When the acorns are ripe many wild animals and birds flock into the miniature forest to feast on the nuts.—Argonaut.

Told Almost All. Here is a story told by one of our women lawyers: "I told my client to tell me everything just as it had occurred—to hold back nothing—and then, being perfectly familiar with all the facts, I might be able to help him. After the story had come to an end I asked him if that were all."

"Everything—except where I hid the money!" was the answer.—Buffalo News.

he runs more fleetly, dodges with more agility, plays more expertly in every way, showing thereby his gain, both in nerve and muscular control.

Where at all possible there is an added benefit from play if adults join in the games. And this benefit is twofold, for the grown man or woman gains none less than the child from the experience. Teachers are greatly in need of the periods of relaxation and if vigorously entered into—playing the game to win—they may profit in health, in good fellowship with children and in some little knowledge.

Parents, too, should have their share in the benefits of the play world. Unfortunately indeed is the father or mother whose life is impoverished by not knowing the joy of occasional "sprees of play" with "the kids." Most unfortunate, I think, are those who do not even know the play life of their children.

In Denver there is a club formed for the purpose of making parents and their children acquainted with each other through play. This club meets at the various homes, the hostess being responsible for the program, which consists of musical or other numbers rendered sometimes by children and sometimes by adults, occasional dancing, games, some of which must call for the mutual participation of children and their elders.

And now to come right down to our own problems, why not come in and not only watch your child play the games he plays, but come prepared to play some of the games with him. It will help him and it will help you.

"Having ascertained that the sentiment of a large number of people, in various walks of life, throughout the state, is in favor of the election of a business man to the United States senate, I have decided to seek the Republican nomination for that office."

"The experience and training which I feel have equipped me to serve the state in the capacity are as follows: In the year 1886 I entered the service of the United States Express company in New York City in a subordinate capacity. Careful application to duty and self-improvement enabled me to assume from time to time duties of enlarging importance, resulting in my finally becoming assistant to the president. My duties in that position required me to handle large business affairs both in the United States and in Europe. During this business relationship, which lasted for twenty years, and incidental thereto, it was my good fortune to be connected for twelve years in a business and official capacity with the work of the United States senate. While connected with the United States senate I became acquainted with the late Senator Nixon who invited me to associate myself with his interests in Nevada, and in the year 1906 I took up my residence in Reno, and became associated with his banking enterprises. After a residence of two years in Reno, at Senator Nixon's request I became secretary and treasurer of the Goldfield Consolidated Mines company, taking up my residence in Goldfield where I have since resided. During my residence in Goldfield I have been engaged in a large number of diversified business enterprises vital to the welfare of the state."

"I have always believed, and I now believe, that the interests of this state and of the United States are best served by adherence to the fundamental principles of the Republican party, and if nominated and elected my ambition and inclination will be to apply to the duties of the office and the furtherance of those principles the same qualities of application, industry and intelligence which have maintained me in my former and present business associations."

"I discover a growing appreciation on the part of the public of the fact that the activities of government are distinctively in the nature of business activities, and that the establishment of conditions, which make for the economic welfare of communities in their relations to other communities involve merely intelligent business adjustment. The idea of sending to the senate a business man of broad experience and training having met with state-wide approval, it is with confidence that I announce myself as a candidate for the Republican nomination for the United States senate."

BUTLER THEATER

"Tables Turned," a five-part photodrama in which Emmy Wehlen, the popular and charming Viennese stage star is seen in the stellar role, will be shown at the Butler this evening. It is an intensely interesting and dramatic offering, that has a strong appeal, and offers Miss Wehlen ample opportunity to display her remarkable versatility, for since her advent into motion pictures this musical star has demonstrated her ability to enact difficult emotional roles. It will mark her second bow as a screen artist, her first appearance being in the Metro production, "When a Woman Loves." Miss Wehlen is perhaps best known for her work in musical comedy. For three years she was the leading woman at the Gaiety Theater, London, and sang the leading roles in "The Merry Widow," "The Dollar Princess," and other big musical productions in London and New York. Her last stage appearance was in "Tonight's the Night" at the Shubert Theater in New York last season. She is supported by an excellent cast including H. Cooper Cliff and Jeannette Horton. The preliminary reel will be Pathe Weekly.

Tomorrow, Paramount travel pictures and Pauline Frederick in "Sold," a Famous Players production in five parts. March 11th, the big war picture, "Somewhere in France" giving you a vivid picture of the world war as it is being waged today.

MR. AND MRS. SAMUEL McCANDLESS, nee Sallie Sprague, motored over from Goldfield yesterday in their new two passenger Dodge.
